

PRESENTATIONS > Pre-K—1

Safe Voices offers the following school-based presentations to help students foster critical thinking skills and develop strategies for healthy relationships. Key themes include advocacy, gender roles and stereotypes, and media literacy.

ZERO

Children often struggle to find 'their place.' This book introduces Zero, a number who feels it has no value, as it interacts with its fellow numbers. Students will be led to understand the concept of worth and how to identify it in themselves and others.

This colorful book reminds us that it takes just one to make everyone count. Students will recognize their voice as a powerful and important tool, and the many ways in which they can utilize it to advocate for themselves and those around them.

ONE

TWO

Two is a powerful story of friendship, loss, and self-discovery. Students will identify the links between emotions and behaviors and recognize that, although we don't choose our feelings, we are responsible for choosing our resulting behaviors.

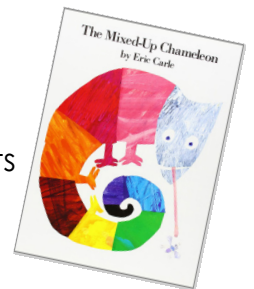

I CALL MY HAND GENTLE

This book reinforces the idea that we choose what our hands do by telling a story of a child who sees her hands as special. Students will be able to identify and explore the wonderful and productive things they can do with their hands.

THE MIXED-UP CHAMELEON

Through this engaging story, students will learn that we all possess unique traits and strengths, and will recognize and appreciate their individuality.

WHAT HAPPENS IF?

Through a series of dramatic role play scenarios, students will learn about gender stereotypes, and gain increased awareness of how these stereotypes may influence our behaviors and our opinion of others.

County Educator Contacts

Androscoggin: 795-6744

Franklin: 778-6297

Oxford: 364-9908

SafeVoices

Working to End Domestic Violence

info@safevoices.org

www.safevoices.org

Administration

207-795-6744

Fax 207-795-6814

PO Box 713 Auburn, ME 04212